

Israel Solomon, Live Painting Artist

I am Israel Solomon, a visual artist and art educator who works mainly within Indianapolis. I currently teach visual art at KIPP Indy College Prep middle school where I have created my own curriculum which is based on the foundations of art. I have had an interest in creating art since I was a child and began my journey as a kid drawing my favorite cartoon characters. It is my goal as an artist to share my view of the world in a positive light, as well as inspire individuals using color, shape, and the human figure. I plan to continue my journey as an artist by finding more avenues to express myself professionally and to instruct students on the university and collegiate levels. I thank everyone who has provided me with an opportunity to share and display my work. I hope that it leaves a positive impact on my community and the world.
