

Marquita Gordy

Marquita Ruff was born and raised in South Bend, Indiana. She is a proud graduate of Ball State University, and Thomas M. Cooley Law School. Marquita has dedicated her life to public service and the fair execution of justice. She has over fifteen years of prosecutorial experience serving in positions as a Victim Advocate for violent felonies, Domestic Violence Advocate, Legal Intern, and her current position as an Assistant Prosecuting Attorney for St. Louis County. She has served as an Assistant Prosecutor for six years, where in her current role she makes issuing and charging decisions regarding violent felonies committed within St. Louis County. Marquita is a founding board member of Beautiful Waves, a non-profit organization whose goal is to be a transitional living facility for girls who are aging out of foster care and are at risk for homelessness and human trafficking. She enjoys spending her free time with her husband, Jarvis and son, Solomon.
